

Attending DEF CON Guide

01 DC Suggestions

- Find your tribe! With so many villages, events, and clubs find a group to connect and hang with!
- Follow the 3-2-1 rule (3 hours of sleep, 2 meals, 1 shower)
- Have a plan, but be flexible. Know what talks/villages you want to see, but make time to talk with people too!

Wear deoderant, feel free to connect with people on social media, and say hi to folks in the lobby/hallway! And if you need a map hit up Hacker Tracker, The One!, or a goon/info station.

02 Vegas Suggestions

- The desert is HOT and DRY! Drink plenty of water, and wear sunscreen if you think you'll need it
- Vegas is a cash town that runs on tips and is expensive. Make sure to budget enough for the things you need.
- Wear comfy shoes that are broken in! You'll be walking a lot, don't make it harder on yourself.

Try to avoid ATMs on the strip as they'll charge fees, and you'll want to try and plan around crowds/how hot it will be

03 Other Considerations

- Make sure you've packed the things you need (charger, meds, clothes, comfy shoes, etc..)
- Know the check-in/out times of your hotel and if your hotel will do a "security check" while you're there
- If you need help at the conference, find a goon in a red shirt or one of the information stations!

Have any emergency numbers you need and there's often a DEF CON Hotline as well if you need help

04 More Info

- DEF CON Info:
<https://info.defcon.org/>
- The One!:
<https://defcon.outel.org/dcwp/>
- Hacker Tracker App:
<https://hackertracker.app>

Sources

DEF CON: <https://defcon.org/>

The One! (and the wonderful talk put on by Qumqats)
<https://defcon.outel.org/dcwp/dc33/>